AMERICAN SYMPATHY.

It already seems very clearly indicated that the sympathy of the American people is strongly on the side of Russia during the pending war. There are several reasons for this. First, the American people are naturally sympathetic towards the Russians in a war with the French. Second, the American people are naturally sympathetic towards the Russians in a war with the French. Third, the American people are naturally sympathetic towards the Russians in a war with the French.

Another influence that will greatly affect our sympathies is the presence among us of a large and influential German element. This element, however, is not generally sympathetic towards the French. It is generally sympathetic towards the Russians. This is because the German people are naturally sympathetic towards the Russians in a war with the French.
